

Monet painted several haystacks pictures in different lighting, different seasons, and different weather.

SAMPLE ONLY

He painted things that many artists would have passed by just because he was interested in the way the light landed on something at a certain time.