

Who am I?

Vegetable Riddles

Fruity Riddles

I'm something that grows under the ground.

Green, feathery leaves, like ferns, sprout from my top.

I'm a long, hard, skinny orange vegetable. Rabbits love me.

Some people say that I help you to see in the dark.

You can cook me or eat me raw.

What am I?

I'm a carrot.

I'm something that grows close to the ground.

Rabbits like to nibble me and so do caterpillars and slugs!

I'm a green, leafy vegetable that you don't have to cook.

You'll find me on your plate when you eat salad.

What can I be?

I'm a lettuce.

I'm a small, round, pinky, red vegetable.

My root is white, just like my inside.

I grow underground with only my feathery leaves showing.

You can slice me and eat me raw in salads.

I hope you like my peppery taste.

What am I?

I'm a radish.

I'm a round, knobby vegetable with a red or brown skin.

I grow underground and can be peeled then cooked in many different ways.

I'm delicious boiled, baked or mashed.

I'm useful for making in crisps and putting into bags.

When I'm chopped and fried I make chips.

What could I be?

I'm a potato.

I'm a small, green vegetable.

I grew up with my friends in a cosy green pod.

My name and the letter I start with sound the same.

I'm often served with fish and chips but then I'm over so saushy.

What am I?

I'm a pea.

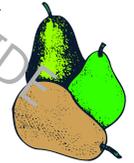

I'm a bell-shaped fruit that grows on a tree.

Under my skin I'm white and juicy but sometimes quite hard.

I have a core with seeds that you call pips.

My name rhymes with 'chair' because I'm a lovely pear.

I'm a fruit that is yellow and juicy on the inside.

Outside I'm very, very spiky, waxy and hard.

My leaves look like cactus leaves or a spiky hair cut..

I have 'apple' in my name but I'm not an apple!

What am I?

I'm a pineapple.

My skin is yellow but nobody eats it.

I look like a long curved finger.

I grow in heavy bunches high up in trees.

To get to my sweet inside you need to peel me.

I give you lots of energy so you can play but take care you that don't slip on my skin!

What am I?

I'm a banana.

I can be yellow, red or green and I'm often rosy.

I'm picked off a tree in an orchard.

Some people say I keep the doctor away.

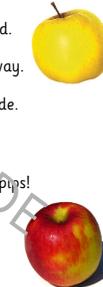

When you bite me, I'm white inside.

I can taste sweet or sour.

Don't eat my core or my pips!

What am I?

I'm an apple.

On the outside I'm small, red and a little bit bumpy.

I'm shaped like a giant's tear drop.

When you cut me open I look like a heart.

In summer time I'm perfect with cream.

Inside I'm a red, juicy berry.

What am I?

I'm a strawberry.

I can be red, purple, green or white.

I look like tiny spheres and I grow on vines.

I'm small enough to pop into your mouth but, watch out, I might have pips inside.

If I hang around in a bunch, too long I might become a raisin!

My name starts with the letter 'g'.

What am I?

I'm a grape.

I start off green then I turn red, orange or yellow.

I can be tiny like grapes or as big as a tennis ball.

I have lots of seeds inside.

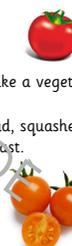

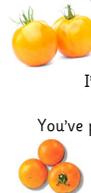

I'm really a fruit but people eat me like a vegetable.

You've probably seen me served with a salad, squashed in a sandwich or cooked for breakfast.

What am I?

I'm a tomato.
